Human Rights Watch Welcomes the Arrest of Rwanda Intelligence Chief Emmanuel Karenzi Karake

June 24, 2015

By Human Rights Watch Press
Published June 24, 2015

Human Rights Watch has welcomed the arrest of Emmanuel Karenzi Karake, head of the Rwandan intelligence services.

Karake was arrested in London on June 20, 2015 on a European warrant following a request issued by a Spanish judge.

RELATED: Ethiopia Intensifies Digital Attack on Opponents Ahead of General Elections

"Human Rights Watch has reviewed the 2008 Spanish indictment, which it believes has some merit, and calls for the investigations into the crimes cited therein to continue to be pursued," a Press Statement issued by the rights organisation in London on June 23, 2015, says.